

EDWARD JOHNS

Born in Wales in 1984.

Modern still life and interior photographer, After studying commercial photography at The Bournemouth Arts Institute I moved to London as a freelance photographer assistant in 2007. I am currently assisting some of the UK's leading still life and Interior photographers as well as constantly striving for the crisp aesthetic that drives my personal photography.

My work comes from a fascination with texture, shape and form. Telling stories with objects and allowing them to have more life than is seen in the day to day humdrum of the world around us. I think its not always the objects that are shown in the photographs that tell the stories but the suggestion of life outside of the frame which bring it together. All of the work I produce is completely set up and then deconstructed allowing the photograph to be the only record of what has happened.
